POETRY.

MELODY, A-LA MOORE.

Oh give me not unmeaning smiles,
Though cloud like cares may fly before them ;
But let me see the sweet blue isles
Of radiant eyes when tears wash o'er them.
Though small the fount where they begin,
They form, 'tis thought in many a sonnet,
A flood to drown our sense of sin ;
But ah ! Love's ark still floats upon it.

Then give me tears—oh ! hide not one ;
The best affections are but flowers,
That faint beneath the fervid sun,
And languish once a day for showers.
Yet peril lurks in every gem—
For tears are worse than swords in slaughter ;
And men are still subdued by them,
As humming-birds are shot with water !

TRANSLATION,

Of an Unpublished Poem by Ugo Foscolo.

The rose is fairest when 'ts culled at morn,
Each leaf besprinkled with the glistening dew ;
The blue wave gladdens when is hushed the storm,
And nature glows again with brighter hue.

Thou too art fairest when thy drooping eye
In fondness melting, softens with a tear,
Pure and transparent as Ausonia's sky,
Madly bewitching, exquisitely dear !

OUR DOCTOR.

You don't know our doctor. More pity for you: he is decidedly the cleverest man of his profession in our village, but has the worst practice. And I'll tell you why. He is an inveterate punster : and it is one great failing of our villagers that they have no genius for this kind of wit. Their minds, like frisky horses, object to carrying more than one idea at at a time. The won't see double. It is this, as I said before, that has ruined our doctor. His wit, like happiness, is "born a twin :" and if his double-entendre has a bad and a good signification, his patients are sure to lay hold of the unpleasant one—like servant maids, who always will take up China jars by the cracked handle. No man has had better opportunities than our doctor ; and no one ever made a more unfortunate use of them.—The squire of the parish was one of his first patients, an old fellow of ninety. On complaining that "really he was getting quite blind," and asking what he must do to restore his eye-sight, the doctor told him the best thing would be to eat nothing but see biscuit. That was his last visit at the hail.

Soon after this he lost a very good patient, a retired ailor of great wealth, by declaring, after the poor man had recovered from a fit of extraordinary duration, that "really he must acknowtedge it was a very tight fit indeed."

A young lady applied to him who had received a wound (a mere scratch) from a fellow toxophilite at an archery meeting. He desired her to eat nothing but arrow-root for a fortnight, and rub the part affected night and morning with arrow-matic vinegar. The lady soon got a new string to her bow.

A "sixbottle" fellow once came to him complaining that he was all in a shake, and desired to know what was the matter with him. The doctor putting on one of his most knowing looks, assured him that it was a case of quart-an ague ; and on being asked what must be done, replied that the most usual treatment was cup-ping, and opening the jug-ular vein.

On a poor, whimsical, like-nobody-else sort of a man being found drowned in a horse-pond, he procured him to be buried in a cross-road, because he persevered in declaring him to be a fellow de se.

On another occasion he nearly killed an old widow lady by recommending roast duck as the best kind of quack medicine.

He cut short a poor fellow who was complaining of his dropsy, by telling him he ought not to grumble, as nothing was more natural than to find water in the pit of the stomach.

Another poor fellow he violently offended, by declaring that Mr Bramah ought to be called in to such an obstinate case of lock-jaw.

He was almost the death of a poor hypochondriacal gentleman, who fancied himself a pug-dog, by recommending him to take a little bark.

He made himself many enemies among the M. D's of the neighborhood, by setting up in his surgery window this notice—"Physicians prescriptions dispensed with."

The last time I saw him, he told me he had been attending a most extrrordinary case—that of an old woman of ninety-eight, who had died of love—and, on my expressing my incredulity, appealed to his journeyman whether it was not true that poor Mrs Simkins had died of an affection of the heart.

I could tell you a thousand of his oddities if I had time. To a miser he prescribed anti moncy, and recommended "drops of brandy" as the best thing in the world for Saint Vitus's dance. But, poor fellow, every joke cost him a patient, and now he has scarcely half-a-dozen to crack them on—for people, they say, don't like doctors to be their own merrymen—and they complain that instead of trying to keep them alive with physic, his object seems to be to make 'em die with laughter.

Michael Kelly and Pope.—Pope, who came out in London, in 1774, and was then about twenty-seven years old, was very solicitous, towards the latter part of his life, of being thought much younger than he was, a desire that Mich Kelly thought proper on all occasions to thwart. One morning Pope called, and Kelly put into his hands a letter with the Dublin post-mark, addressed to Pope, "To the care of M. Kelly, Esq."—After many thanks, Pope opened and read the effusion, which was from an unknown correspondent, begging a favor for his grandson, reminding Pope how often he (P.) in Dublin had patted the writer on the head, and praised his aptitude as a scholar, &c. &c., and concluded with the following paragraph :—"I am now eighty years of uge, and do hope that the friend and patron of my boyhood will not desert me, or mine, in my declining years." Nothing but Kelly's good dinners could have tempted Pope to forgive this.

Mathews and T. Hood.—" Hood's words won't act," Mathews said : " he sets out on a pilgrimage in pursuit of puns. He is an inquisitor upon the King's English, and has tortured every word in the language till it confessed a double meaning. His drollery is addressed to the eye rather than to the ear—he is pleasant in print. Peake is a punstor to hear, Hood to read."

Chaise Accident.—A chaise was overturned this (Tuesday) morning, and two gentlemen were thrown with great force upon the pavement. The horse being frightened by the crowd, the moment the chaise was disencumbered of its former occupants, ran with great speed towords Roxbury, and was not checked until after the chaise was literally demolished—Merc.

THE BOSTON MORNING POST.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1835.

Libels.—The Correspondent X. is out again in the Salem Observer in favor of the criminal law of libel, interpolated upon our code by the Judiciary. We admit and have admitted that the common law upon this subject exists in England; but we deny that it ever had any foot-hold in this State, except by Judicial licentiousness. To sustain himself, X. gives up English, and appeals to American authorities, and quotes Chancellor Kent, as follows:—

"The great body of the common law consists of a collection of principles to be found in the opinions of sages, or deduced from universal and immemorial usage, and receiving progressively the sanction of the courts."

And does not this confirm us in our position? We knew before, but we wanted to draw the fact from this champion of the Bench, that the common law consisted only of the opinions of sages, that is of Judges, which opinions the courts have substituted for law, as Chancellor Kent states; and this is the precise fraud we charge upon the Bench, in their libel law. THEY HAVE SUBSTITUTED THESE OPINIONS FOR THE PLAIN PROVISIONS OF THE CONSTITUTION, AND IN DIRECT VIOLATION OF THOSE PROVISIONS.

X. further quotes from Comyn's Digest as follows—

"By the common law, every libeller shall be indicted, and if thereupon convicted shall be fined and imprisoned, according to the nature of the offence."—Comyn's Digest.

And this opinion, this ipsi dixit, of Comyn, is what X. puts in for law, it is what the judges use for law—they have no better law in the case. Libels are punished by fine and imprisonment, says Comyn—well how much fine—how long an imprisonment, for life? in what prison, a common jail—the States prison or a man of war hulk? All these, like the law itself, depend on the opinion of the Judge. A singular government of law this!

We admit, however, that Comyn's opinion is right if he applies it to English Judge law, alias English Common law, but we deny that it is, or ever was, law in this State—it is not United States law—it is not MASSACHUSETTS law, and these are the only laws by which our citizens are to be governed. Was this common law libel law "usually practiced on in the courts of law" in this State before the adoption of the Constitution in 1782? If it were, cite the cases—if it were not, and it was not, then the judiciary had no legislative authority by which they could enact it; and the Constitution prohibits alike the Legislature from enacting it because it violates a right guaranteed to the people in that instrument. X. further says—

"The constitution is the standard by which we judge of the legality or otherwise of our statutes.—But the interpretation of this constitution belongs to the Judges. They are to determine whether a statute be or be not at variance between the common law and the constitution."

We utterly deny that the interpretation of the Constitution, in criminal trials, belongs to the judges—it belongs to the jury. They, and not the Bench, are the judges of the law and the fact, of the law to its foundation, including its constitutionality. We know that in practice judges assume what X. assumes for them, but it is an invasion of the legal rights of the jury, a co-ordinate branch of the court, and of the legal rights of the accused.

As for Story, and Dane, and Blackstones's opinions, we will state once for all, that their opinions are no better than ours, or than those of any other man, of plain common sense, who has the constitution before him, and who understands his mother tongue. We have no reverence for names, we reverence truth alone, and a truth from the mouth of Pop Emmons is better than a fallacy from Judge Story's. As for Judge Story's opinions, we will at our leisure some time hence, show them up. We think no judge living has done as much as he has to vitiate the law and legal proceedings.

Will X. inform us how libels tend more to breaches of the peace than slander does, when applied in opprobrious epithets, personally; and why the latter is not indictable at common law as well as libels. Do we understand X. by his silence to yield the point that criminal prosecutions for publications are a restraint upon the liberty of the press? Does he abandon his favorite Blackstone on this subject? Does he cease to defend this opinion of this saint in the legal calender?

Courage on Paper.—Webb, the swaggering bragadocio who nominally edits the Courier & Enquirer, says if Congress passes a law forbidding him to run his daily express, he will repair to Washington for the purpose of riding the first ten miles himself; under which circumstances, he thinks no officer will be "foothardy enough" to interfere. Webb's famous visit to Washington to chastise Gen. Green, and the holy horror in which he rolled up his eyes at the sight of that gentleman's "mahogany-stock" pistol, is a fair specimen of the part he usually plays upon such occasions, and will enable the reader to judge what his success would probably be in a conflict with both Houses of Congress. His threat remind us of a person we once saw running away from another individual with all his strength, and singing out at the top of his voice, "take away that man before I kill him."

France and Spain.—In the course of the recent trials for libels upon the government in Spain, M. Martin du Nord, Procureur General, declared that "as the policy of certain measures had been introduced by others, he would declare in reply that the French Ministry had never ceased to feel the deepest sympathy in the cause of the Queen Christina; that it entertained, on the contrary, the most sincere wish for the consolidation of her infant daughter's throne, which the Government of France had contributed to found; and that it is, as it ever will be, a strict observer of the quadruple treaty of alliance."

At a late masquerade in Malta, given by the lady of the English Governor, "two British officers appeared in the character of a couple of large bottles of blacking." After moving about in great style for some time, they ran against each other and broke all to pieces, when out jumped two harlequins, who amused the company with many ingenious tricks and witty artifices.

La Somnambula.—The splendid manner in which the principal Artists in this enchanting Opera acquit themselves, is a theme of untiring eulogy with all who have witnessed their remarkable performances. The deep rich voice of Mr BROUGH, in the Air,

'As I view now these scenes so charming,' imparts a thrilling pathos to the music and words—he sings in this scene with exquisite taste—there is a solemn and touching mellowness in his impressive full bass voice, which, to our senses, is more charming than any thing of the kind that ever before fell upon our ears. Many of the songs and chorusses are written in the beautiful key of A flat major,—of all others the most pathetic. It is in this key that he sings the above Air. The touching lines—

'She was like thee ere death, oppressing,
Sunk her beauties in decay'—

were given with an effect that will long be remembered. His voice is of great compass, combining sweetness with purity of tone, uttered with a true conception of the subject. Mrs WOOD's acting at the close of the second Act is indescribable—the agony pictured in her expressive face—the frenzied trembling of every limb—the dishevelled hair—the wild shriek, and the maddening despair which finally appears to drive reason from its throne, is the most startling and overpowering exhibition of histrionic ability within the reach of our memory. Miss Kemble never surpassed it—yes, however much the admirers of Miss K. may laud her, as 'unapproachable,' we repeat, that in our humble estimation, as an actress, Mrs Wood in Amina exhibited talents equal to the most brilliant efforts of Miss Kemble. The whole character is a beautiful and perfect picture, leaving no room upon the canvass for a single tint. Of Mrs W's powers as a vocalist, it is unnecessary to speak again—she has so long stood, not only unrivalled, but so far in advance of all female English singers, that comparison is impossible. Mr WOOD's Solo in the first Scene of the third Act—

"Still so gently o'er me stealing,
Mem'ry will bring back the feeling,
Spite of all my grief revealing,
That I love thee — love thee still;
Though some other swain may claim thee,
Ah! no other e'er can warm me;
Yet ne'er fear, I will not harm thee,—
I, thou false one, love thee still—" is enough to immortalize him in his profession—the rapturous expressions of applause from the audience is evidence of its degree of excellence. The part of Elvino was sustained by him in a well conceived and happy manner: the above beautiful Solo runs a little too high for his natural voice, although he possesses one of the, if not the very highest and sweetest ever listened to in this country. The Orchestra accompaniment to this beautiful melody is perfectly bewitching, and indeed the instrumentation throughout the piece, for delicacy, ingenuity, and happy adaptation to the subject, stands unrivalled by any production ever heard in Boston. We must not forget our especial favorite Madame OTTO (Louise)—her unaffected and extremely modest manner, gives additional charm to her clear and melodious voice. Mr ANDREWS's Alessio is well played—we think his change of breeches, upon the second night, an improvement. Mrs SMITH's by-play, (Liza) is very good, and admirably carried through the piece. To Mr COMER, under whose direction the Opera is brought forward, the public are greatly indebted; it has been produced here in less time after its first rehearsal than at any other theatre in which it has been performed. In New York it was in rehearsal eight or nine weeks. The Orchestra, under the direction of Mr OSTINELLI, executes its portion of the music with the exactness and skill to be expected from the high and deserved reputation of its leader; indeed, the whole piece, in all its parts, is presented with a degree of perfection highly creditable to all engaged in its representation.

We have no stronger partiality for the Tremont and its general management now, than we have entertained for some time back; yet this shall not prevent us from expressing approbation of whatever we may see there deserving of it—the praise bestowed we consider fairly won—we certainly feel no disposition to give more than is deserved.

The Editor of the Dunstable Telegraph has a heart which it would kill an ostrich to swallow. All the pretty girls in that neighborhood have been talking to him about getting married these three years—but they have talked in vain. He received, the other day, from a Fancy Fair, a beautiful package, curiously folded and sealed, on which was inscribed "A Remedy for the miseries of Bachelorship." He opened it as carelessly as he would an exchange paper, and found written therein—"Heaven's last, best gift to man,—A WIFE." He had adjusted his dickey and brushed his whiskers at the last dates, and had openly sworn to "take the responsibility" of trying the "experiment."

Interesting to Petty Litigants.—The Justices court for the County of Suffolk, will hold its session on Saturday next, in the new Court House, in Court Street.—The court room is on the first floor, opposite the east entrance, which is opposite Tudor's buildings. This is the court before which all civil actions, under twenty dollars are brought, for this city and county.

Melancholy Accident.—We learn that last evening, as a party were returning in a two-horse sleigh, from a wedding in Stroudwater Village, a short distance from the house where the wedding took place, by the sudden slewing of the sleigh, they were thrown out, and one of them, a young lady by the name of Nancy C. Winslow, daughter of Mr Albert Winslow of this city, was so badly injured that she died this morning.—Portland Jeffersonian.

POLICE COURT.

A Dumb Bruiser.—William Plumley, a decent looking young man, pretty well known at the North End for his winks, grimaces, and finger-lingo, by which he imposes upon the credulous as a deaf and dumb unfortunate, was brought up for an unprovoked assault on Mr Samuel B. Clements, in Ann street, on Tuesday night. When arraigned, as usual, Plumley played the character of Mute, and looked in truth as one, who having eyes, saw not, having ears, yet hearing not, and having a tongue, yet speaking not. A person present having assured the Court, that Plumley was a bona fide deaf-and-dumb one, four witnesses were called upon to testify as to auricular and articulating capability. They made it out, that the poor creature was blessed with a fair proportion of the gift of the gab: viz:—

1st Witness—After the affray, he came up to me, and said, in a husky voice, that he had seen me fifty times, and would have his revenge of me for interfering, and asked a man for a pencil to mark my name down with, and paid a penny for a sheet of paper to write it on.

2d Wit.—I guess you'd think he could hear, if you could only see him start when I speak to him to drive him off from our door sometimes—he speaks kind of broken, but you can understand every word—I know of no business that he follows, excepting lounging round, and twirling his fingers and making signs—he is a complete vagabond.

3d Wit.—After he let go Mr Clements, he came at me, and tried to grab my cane, and said——[but as swearing, even according to the strictest rules of profane grammar, cannot be accounted speaking, we omit the instance quoted by the witness.] He dragged me into a bar-room, from which they kicked us both out, and he still resisted upon having my cane.

4th Wit.—I heard him, please yer honor, swearing so hard that I heard it all round Faneuil Hall, and went round to see what was the matter, and then I saw him following four men, and inviting them to fight, with terrible oaths.

With the flood of light thus thrown upon Plumley's ability to hear and answer to the charge preferred against him, the Court proceeded to the inquiry touching the subject matter of the "previous question," by calling to the stand

S. B. Clements—In company with two other gentlemen, who have been examined, I was walking near the corner of Ann street, in the direction of Union street, to my boarding house, when Plumley suddenly sprung upon me, and without speaking a word, seized my neckerchief, that was loosely tied, in the fashion of Reid's, and attempted to choke me. If my neckerchief had not broken, I should certainly have come under Lynch law. He pocketed the fragments of the neckerchief, and they were afterwards found upon him, when he was arrested. He said afterwards he took me for a man who had insulted him at the theatre.

As it was not suitable to the part he was playing, Plumley uttered not a syllable in defence, but a witness stepped up and said he had known him a number of years, and never heard him speak, and paid his fine of $2.00 and costs.

Note.—Some months ago an impostor of similar name met a worthy watchman one morning, and by cutting up some queer qualms with his thumbs and fingers, and wry mouths and grunting, made him believe that he had been knocked down and robbed. It turned ont, that the fellow had spent the night—or a part of it—in a house of *un*questionable character, and had been turned out as being too disorderly for a professionally disorderly house. He seems to be a perfect counterpart to Mr. Metaphor Case, who accused a negro of robbing him in New York, two months ago, but on account of the discovery that Mr Metaphor was an impostor, bearing the similitude of a dummy only, the poor nig was set at liberty, after conviction.

These mock-dummies are by no means novelties, and are to be met with in all countries, and their success abounds most where ignorance also abounds. The first within our personal recollection was met with in the petty village of Torpoint—(or more correctly, if not more elegantly, speaking by the Gazetteer, instead of our own knowledge, Noose's hole,) near Tor-bay, in England. It was a day or two after the bombarding squadron of Lord Exmouth returned to Plymouth harbor, after raising a thundering row-de-dow about the ears of his Highness, the Dey of Algiers, who had the reputation of being obstinately deaf-and-dumb to the cries of his Christian captives, whom Exmouth, through the emphatic and unequivocating diplomacy of bumb-shells and seventy-two pounders, restored to their liberty.

The impostor we spoke of came over to Torpoint one morning, and created a great sensation, by pretending to be a liberated Christian captive, who had been ten years a prisoner at Algiers, and while there had had his tongue cut out. The vagabond might have been born a Christian, though an ugly one, and he possessed a singular faculty of doubling up his tongue, and turning the tip down into his throat, so that the under surface, which alone could be seen, was a very good imitation of a tongue cut short. With his tongue thus turned inside out, as it were, and his mouth open, he used to make the most unearthly and hideous outcries, which perfectly convinced the good wives, fishwomen, and washerwomen of Torpoint that he was a genuine Christian, who had been barbarously tortured and sold for a slave among the throat-cutting, nose-slitting infidels of Algiers. From grand-dams down to grand-daughters, there was a great competition who should show the most kindness to the mutilated pilgrim, and many a sulky urchin was that great day deprived of his candy, for the benefit of the tongueless christian, to whom his hoarded penny, coaxed from him by kisses, threats, and thumps, was given as an extraordinary charity.

During the day, the women had the poor creature all to themselves, and well did they ply him with cake, and cream and tea, from house to house, besides filling his pockets with small change, and in the evening, when their hardy spouses returned from their labors from the Navy Yard, his piteous lot was most sympathetically portrayed to them. The Torpoint men were like their wives, benevolent and easily imposed upon by the signs of misfortune; but they differed from their dearies in the manner of administering consolation, and took the hapless stranger to a tavern. Like most other good taverns, they kept something at the "Lion and the Unicorn," which, when taken, gives joy to the sorrowful, wit to the dull, and eloquence and verbosity to the taciturn, but never till that night was it ever known to make the dumb to speak. The third glass completely cured the patient, and, his coiled up member suddenly relaxed to its natnral position, and to the delight but surprise of all present, he regained his speech, to resent a supposed affront; and though he could not pray like a Christian, he could swear in any quantity, like a trooper. His stay in Torpoint was short, after the boys heard of his miraculous recovery; and the way he scudded for the church-hamlet of St. Anthony, some three miles inland, was not slow. The young rascals pelted him with pebbles full two miles out of town, and would, for ought we know, have pelted him till this day, if they had not accidentally met in the lane a wandering maniac commonly known by the appalling appellation of "Mad Harrison," who had been the terror to all evil doers, male and female, under the age of fourteen, time out of mind. At the sight of his tall gaunt frame, wildly habited in a sky-blue box-coat, the courage of the varlets was suddenly taken all-aback, and, like chaff before the blast, they were driven by their fears back to the village ten times swifter than they chased the drunken dummy out.

Foote advised a gentleman who desired to attend a masquerade in a new character, to 'go sober.'

Foreign Items.

Egyptian Antiquities.—The Odessa Journal states that Mehemet Ali has prohibited any further export of Egyptian Antiquities, and intends forming a National Museum at Cairo.

Fine.—The terms "board and lodging" are becoming exploded: the phraseology creeping into advertisements and notices in the windows now is, "board and residence."

Scarlatina.—A Styrian physician has published a cure of scarlatina in its last and all but fatal stage, by covering the abdomen of the patient, a child seven years old, with ice and snow, and renewing the cold application continually for a considerable time.

Itch Mite.—A perfect itch mite is described by M. Duges, in Annales des Sciences Naturalles. Its sucker and limbs are red; it burrows in tortuous canals beneath the cuticle, and there it remains—not in the pustula produced by it. Turpentine is recommended as a cure.

Covent Garden.—The Irish Ambassador has been received with due honors on his return to this country, and represents his master, that imperial despot, Lord Laughter, with all his original shrewdness, confidence, and ease. In other words, Mr Power's humor is as rich as ever, and is as richly recompensed.

A new piece is in preparation at one of the Paris Theatre, in which a whimsical novelty will be introduced. A game at cards and dominoes will be played by characters appropriately dressed.

"Have you seen the comet?" asked a friend of our's of a fellow passenger on the Brighton Tally-ho, the other day. "No, sir, I really haven't. "Do you know if it has past its perihelium?" "No, sir; it don't go that way now; it goes through Dunstable."

The Lord Mayor of London has been challenged to fight a duel, with pistols, by Mr Rotch, Chairman of the Middlesex Magistrates. The Mayor had the courage to refuse to fight—and the challenge of the foolish magistrate was very properly met by a criminal information.

BRIGHTON MARKET—MONDAY, Dec. 28.

[From the Daily Advertiser & Patriot.]

At market, 560 Beef Cattle, 20 Stores, 825 Sheep, and 290 Swine. About 100 Swine have been before at market

PRICES—Beef Cattle—A small advance has been effected—we notice a very few fine taken at about 34s 6d—prime at 31s 6d a 33s—good at 28s 6d a 30s—small cattle at 20s a 25s6d.

Barrelling Cattle—The drovers ask about 25c advance on former prices—not many sales effected—about 17 was offered—Mess 25s—No 1 22s—No 2 19s 6d.

Sheep.—The high price obtained for pelts enables the drover to effect quick sales—we quote ordinary at 11s, 13, and 14s—better qualities 16s 6d, 18s and 20s—a lot of beautiful wethers were sold for about $5,75 each—we also noticed 2 beautiful cosset wethers taken at $10 each.

Swine—Two lots more than half sows were sold to close at about 3¾—about 70 were retailed, at 5 for sows and 6 for barrows.

WARREN BRIDGE.

THE Committee to whom was referred a communication from a Committee of the Town of Charlestown to the City Council of Boston, respecting Warren Bridge, Report, That they submitted to the City Solicitor, certain questions, to which he has given the answers annexed, which are made part of this Report, and upon full consideration of the Solicitor's opinion, and of the whole subject in all its bearings, the Committee have concluded to recommend for the adoption of the City Council, the subjoined Resolve:—

Respectfully submitted,
Per order of the Committee,
WINSLOW LEWIS, Chairman.

Resolved, That it is inexpedient at the present time for the City of Boston to join the Town of Charlestown in the bonds required by an act of the Legislature, passed on the 4th of Nov. 1835, concerning Warren Bridge.

In Common Council, Dec. 24, 1835.

The foregoing Resolve, having been twice read, passed. Sent up for concurrence.

JOSIAH QUINCY, Jr. President.

In the Board of Aldermen, Dec. 28, 1835.

Read and concurred, and thereupon ordered that the same be communicated to the Committee of the Town of Charlestown, and published in the newspapers which publish the City Ordinances.

THEODORE LYMAN, Jr. Mayor.

Questions submitted to the City Solicitor, by the Committee appointed to consider and report on the communication received from the town of Charlestown respecting Warren Bridge.

1. What is the state of the action pending between Charles River and Warren Bridge? And when will a decision probably be made?

2. In the event of the success of Charles River Bridge in this case, what will be the extent of our liabilities of every sort?

3. In such event, should we not be liable to the proprietors of all the other toll bridges leading into Boston, for damages, if they should make a claim?

4. Should Boston and Charlestown sign the bond, make the bridge free immediately, and no decision of the case be had until February, 1837, and then Charles River Bridge succeed, would Charlestown and Boston then probably have to repay the whole monies which have been received since the opening of Warren Bridge—and have on hand a property consisting of the Warren Bridge, belonging to the City and Town, with a toll as at present.

To the Committee appointed to consider and report on the Communication received from the Town of Charlestown, respecting Warren Bridge.

City Solicitor's Office, Dec. 18, 1835.

Gentlemen—I have considered the several questions referred to me by you, and now submit the following answers to them:—

1. In answer to the first question, I have to inform you, that the cause now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States, between the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge and the Proprieters of Warren Bridge (John Skinner and others) has been once argued; but in consequence of the death of the Chief Justice, and of one of the Associate Justices, and the resignation of another, the cause now stands for argument again; and, if the above vacancies had been filled, a second argument might, according to the usual course of business, have been expected at the approaching term, in January, 1836. But under existing circumstances, and according to the practice of the Court—which is, not to decide questions of Constitutional Law, except by the full bench—the cause will be further delayed; and the agument will probably not take place till January, 1837. Whether the decision will be made at the same term is uncertain; if not made at that time, it will lie over till January Term, 1838. The great importance of the question will naturally lead to the most deliberate and mature consideration of it by the Court after the hearing of the argument, even if no delay should be occasioned by a final difference of opinion upon any points in the case. That different views may be entertained by the Judges of that Court is not improbable, as there was a division of opinion among the Judges of the Supreme Judicial Court of our own State.

2. To the second question proposed, I beg leave to answer—That "the extent of the liabilities" of the City of Boston, jointly with the Town of Charlestown, under the bond provided for by the late act, (Nov. 4, 1835,) may be stated in general terms to be substantially the same with the liabilities of the Proprietors of the Warren Bridge; it being apparently the intention of the Legislature to substitute the one for the other, so far as respects the parties interested, except the Proprietors of the Warren Bridge.

The liabilities specified are described in the condition of the proposed Bond, which embraces the following particulars, as provided for in the last mentioned act:—

First, That the obligors (Charlestown and Boston) shall and will forever perform all the duties imposed upon the Warren Bridge Corporation by the third section of the act establishing that Corporation (March 12, 1828)—which section requires the Corporation to keep the bridge and draw in good repair, to raise the draw and afford all necessary accommodations for vessels passing the same, and to keep the bridge properly lighted by lamps; the Corporation being also subject to damages in case of neglect on the part of their agents in the above particulars.

Secondly, That the obligors shall also indemnify and save harmless the Commonwealth and the said Warren Bridge Corporation, from all damages, expenses and costs, already arisen, or to arise from the suit now pending in the Supreme Court of the United States, between the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge and John Skinner and others, and the final decree or judgment thereon.

Thirdly, That the obligors shall also pay to the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge, such sum in damages as may in any suit be recovered by them for, or on account of the building, using or continuing the said Warren Bridge, or making the same free of toll.

Upon the giving such a bond the act of November 4, 1835, which provides for the continuance of a former act (March 28, 1833,) is to cease, and Warren Bridge is to become a public highway; and the money in the Treasury received from the tolls of the bridge shall be paid to the obligors in the bond.

Such are the general liabilities of ths Town of Charlestown and the City of Boston jointly, under the proposed bond.

The separate liabilities of the city of Boston will be materially affected by the views which shall be entertained by the City and the Town of Charlestown, respectively as to the proportion of damages which ought to be borne by each; whether the damages in all cases shall be paid one half by each of them, or in some other proportion, to be ascertained by the relative benefit to each town, the amount of taxes paid by each, the population or some other principle that shall be mutually agreed to by the parties.

3. In reply to the third question I have to observe—that the act which provides for the giving of the bond abovementioned, seems to have had principally in view the rights of the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge; and the condition of the bonds has accordingly been framed with reference to the damages that it was supposed might be claimed by that corporation.

So far therefore, as a liability on the part of the City will arise from becoming a party to that bond, it seems to be confined to the claims of the Charles River Bridge.

The further liability of the City will depend upon the fact, whether it shall be the understanding of the parties concerned, that the town of Charlestown and the City of Boston are to assume all the liabilities of the Proprietors of the Warren Bridge (whatever they may prove to be) in addition to those which are expressly created by the bond.

If such shall be the case, then the same principle which would subject the Warren Bridge Corporation (or its substitutes, the Town and City) to damages for the injury caused to Charles River Bridge, would give to the proprietors of the other Toll Bridges leading into Boston the like claim to damages in proportion to the degree of injury which they could prove to have been in like manner caused to them by the Warren Bridge.

4. In answering the fourth question proposed, I beg leave to observe—that the right of the proprietors of Charles River Bridge to recover damages of the Proprietors of Warren Bridge is placed by the former upon the the ground that the erection of Warren Bridge was in law the erection of a nuisance; and upon this ground they applied to our own Court for an injunction to restrain the Proprietors of Warren Bridge from building, and from suffering passengers to go over their Bridge.

Sec. 6, Pickering's Reports 376; and 7 Pick. Rep. 344.

If the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States should be in favor of the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge, the result will be, that the Warren Bridge rights of the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge) and has been unlawfully erected and used (so far as respects the the only remaining question would then be, by what rule the damages should be measured. This so far as we have data for judging, would seem to be the amount of Tolls received at the Warren Bridge; as it would be presumed in a general view of the subject. that those persons who have passed over Warren Bridge would have passed over Charles River Bridge if the latter had continued to be the only avenue to Boston for the line of travel in that direction.

The remaining inquiry under this fourth question is—Whether in the event of a decision in favor of Charles River Bridge, the City of Boston and the Town of Charlestown, after repaying all the monies which have been received at Warren Bridge, would have on hand a property consisting of the Warren Bridge with a Toll as at present.

On this point I have to refer the Committee to the preceding remarks (under this fourth question) respecting the grounds on which the legal proceedings were instituted in our own Court by the Proprietors of Charles River Bridge. If the Warren Bridge should be adjudged to be, legally speaking, a nuisance, so far as respects Charles River Bridge, then it would be an illegal erection, and one which the Town of Charlestown and the City of Boston would have no better right to maintain, as against Charles River Bridge, than the Proprietors who built it would have; and if it should be deemed in fact, as well as technically, a nuisance, the legal course would be to abate it, either by actual removal or by shutting it up so as to prevent its being used by the public. In this view of the case, therefore, Charlestown and Boston could not consider themselves as having on hand a property, consisting of the Warren Bridge, belonging to them and with a Toll as at present.

JNO. PICKERING, City Solicitor.

BOSTON ACADEMY
PENMANSHIP AND BOOK-KEEPING,
No. 2 Amory Hall.

(Corner of Washington and West streets.)

MESSRS. RICHARDSON & STRATTON, having associated themselves in business, for the purpose of instruction in Penmanship, Book Keeping and Arithmetic, beg leave to offer the citizens of Boston and the public generally a prospectus of the course pursued by them.

PENMANSHIP.

Messrs Richardson & Stratton, are both so well known to the Boston public, as teachers of Penmanship, and have taught that art with so much success in this city, that it will perhaps be unnecessary to say any thing further of their system of instruction, the merits of which are so universally acknowledged. For the information, however, of persons who reside at a distance, and may be desirous of being taught the above branches, they beg leave to add, that the system is simple and natural, and will readily remove that stiffness of the arm and fingers which is so embarrassing, and which other professors have heretofore almost entirely failed to accomplish.

BOOK-KEEPING.

In the department of Book-Keeping, Messrs. R. & S. have had much personal experience, and have also derived valuable information from several eminent merchants of this city, which enables them to combine the elementary instructions of the master, with the practical improvements of the merchant. They propose to initiate young gentlemen, who are about entering upon Commercial Business, not to teach merchants. They do not pretend to have made any new inventions or discoveries, but will, in all cases follow the most approved precedents of mercantile experience, and give their pupils such practice, as will enable them, when they arrive at the Counting house, to transact business with precision and despatch.

Terms in the above branches may be known by application at their room.

Classes in session morning, afternoon and evening.

THOMSONIAN INFIRMARY, CORNER OF POND AND THACHER STREETS, BOSTON.—The subscriber, after having experienced much sickness, and having found relief, (after having sought for it in the regular mode of practice in vain) in the Thomsonian mode of practice; and feeling very grateful for the same, besides having had considerable experience in the practice on others while at Dr. Watkin's Infirmary, in Harvard street; and having been at considerable expense in fitting up his house for an Infirmary, so as to make it convenient for himself and the sick, now offers his services in removing disease under the patronage of Dr Samuel Thomson, from whom he will receive all his medicine, and he flatters himself that he shall be able to give general satisfaction. He will also keep Medicines and Family Rights for sale, and hopes to receive a reasonable share of public patronage. JOHN SHERBURNE.
au 17 tf

THOMSONIAN BOTANIC INFIRMARY, No 554, Washington-street, BOSTON, Opposite the Worcester Rail Road Ticket Office.——The subscriber would inform his friends and the public, that he has taken that large and spacious Infirmary above named, and formerly occupied by Dr Brown and himself—that he has fitted it up in a style not surpassed by any other in the State for convenience and comfort: the rooms are large and airy, and command a fine prospect of the Worcester and Providence Rail Roads and the surrounding country on the West—Boston Harbor, its islands, shipping, light houses, &c. on the East, with the most pure air of any part of the city. The subscriber is also determined that nothing shall be wanting through every department of his Infirmary as to neatness and regularity, good order, the best of nursing and attention, to make every one who favors him with their patronage happy and contented. He has also a valuable library of the best selected books for the instruction and amusement of his patients. He has also in readiness clean changes of linen for all patients who come to take single courses of medicine, and India Rubber coverings for the mattrasses and beds he always uses to prevent contagion. His steam boxes have windows with curtains, so that patients who are feeble can at any time put out their heads and breathe fresh air. The boilers are so constructed that he can at any moment graduate the steam to suit their wish or ability to bear, so that there is not the least danger to the most feeble constitution, not even for an infant of a month old. The shower of two quarts of cold water is delicious, though we never insist on it, as it is always a matter of choice with the patients, and a person who has once taken it will never after be denied, but will frequently call for more. The said subscriber has owned Dr Samuel Thomson's family right nearly three years, has given strict attention to its precepts, and for the five last months has administered pure Thomsonian medicine to over two hundred persons, many of whom suffered under the most desperate complaints, and had been given over to die by the regular physicians—and such has been his success, that out of the whole number every individual except two persons have been relieved, and more than three fourths cured who have left his Infirmary, one only having died at the Infirmary. He will still continue to administer Thomsonian Medicines in their purity at his Infirmary, assisted by Dr Darling in all difficult cases, who has been a regular Practitioner of the Thomsonian System for more than fourteen years in this city. Mrs. Badger will attend to the Ladies department at all time—she having been an experienced nurse over eighteen years, a part of which time she was nurse in the Massachusetts General Hospital, since in private families, and for the two last years a strict Thomsonian nurse. The subscriber would respectively invite the afflicted of all descriptions to call and examine for themselves, and if they should see fit to put themselves under his care, let their disease be what it may, if timely application be made, he will ensure a speedy relief.

N B. For sale at the above establishment, a general assortment of pure Thomsonian Medicines, done up with directions for use, at wholesale and retail.
s 18 P. D. BADGER, Botanic Physician.

PURE BEAR'S OIL may be had by the groce, dozen or single bottle, of A. BOYDEN, Hancock-st.

As in all cases, so especially in this, Venders, if they wish to secure the patronage of the public, should be extremely cautious not to sell an article for the Hair which tends to counteract rather than assist nature.

The virtues of Bear's Oil have been too long tested to need any eulogium; and at this time no one can doubt of its being the very best article for strengthening and promoting the growth of the Hair. An honest prejudice against the use of Bear's Oil has long existed, arising from two causes—the improper method of purifying it, and the imposition upon the public of a spurious article. That this prejudice may be wholly removed, this article now offered is warranted the pure Oil, rendered more pleasant by the addition of a little perfume—and the possibility of its injuring the Hair is entirely precluded by the manner in which it has been purified. To prevent fraud, the genuine is enclosed in two wrappers, the inside one being signed Arnold Boyden. aug 15

VEGETABLE PULMONARY BALSAM, is the most valuable remedy now in use for coughs, colds, asthma or phthisic, whooping cough and pulmonary affections of every kind. Its sale is steadily increasing and the proprietors are constatnly receiving the most favorabte account of its effects. The following new certificates are offered for public examination.

From Dr Samuel Morrill to the Proprietors of the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam.

I am satisfied that the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam is a valuable medicine. It has been used in this place with complete success in an obstinate complaint of the lungs, attended with a severe cough, loss of voice, and the raising of much blood, which had previously resisted many approved prescriptions. After using the Balsam one week, the patient's voice returned, and he was enabled to speak audibly. This case occurred some time since, and the man is now engaged not only in active but laborious business.

Respectfully yours &c, SAMUEL MORRILL, M. D.
Concord, N. H. Jan 30, 1832.

From Mr Samuel Everett.

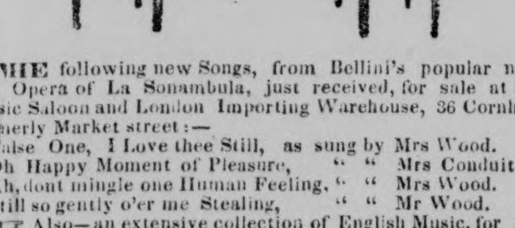

In October 1830, I was attacked with a cough accompanied with a severe pain in the side and difficulty of breathing. I resorted to several remedies but without effect. In January 1831, I was attended by a skilful physician, and subsequently received the advice of several others—but the disease steadily increased; the cough was incessant, attended with a bloody and offensive expectoration; my flesh was wasted, my feet swollen and my strength extremely reduced. In April my case seemed utterly hopeless—I was told by my physicians that medicine could be of no further service to me, and it was not expected by any of my friends that I could survive a month. In this situation my daughter procured a bottle of the Vegetable Pulmonary Balsam, (which she had heard highly recommended for similar complaints,) and prevailed on me to make trial of it. Its use was attended with the most unexpected and happy result. It gave me immediate relief and one bottle effected a cure. I have since been free from pain in the side and cough, except in the case of common colds.

Boston, March 1, 1832. SAMUEL EVERETT.

☞ Particular Caution. Each genuine bottle is enclosed in a blue wrapper, on which is a yellow label signed SAMPSON REED.  None other can be genuine. The great celebrity of the genuine V. P. Balsam has been the cause of attempts to introduce spurious articles, which by partially assuming the name of the genuine, are calculated to mislead the public. Among these spurious mixtures are the 'American Pulmonary Balsam,' 'Vegetable Pulmonary Balsamic Syrup,' &c. ††† Purchasers should inquire for the true article by its whole name, and see that it has the marks and signature of the genuine.

Sold by LOWE & REED, 24 Merchants' Row, and by druggists, generally. Price 50 cts. 2aw—f9

ADAMS'S PATENT SWELLED

BEAM

THE subscriber has on hand a good assortment of the Swelled Beam Windlass Bedsteads, which, for comfort and convenience is undoubtedly the best article yet invented; its chief peculiarity is that of the Swelled Beam, the effect of which is to produce a crowning, and elastic sacking, and effectually provides against its saging. They are easily set up or taken down, and may be saved in case of fire as easily as any other piece of furniture, and from its mode of construction less liable to harbor insects than any other kind; but above all its advantages is the ease and comfort obtained from the sacking, by means of its being made and kept elastic by means of the Swelled Beam, (the form of which is exhibited in the above cut.)

Orders thankfully received, and promptly attended to
